AUSTRALIA CELEBRATES WORLD TEACHERS DAY 2016

MEDIA RELEASE

The Australian Council of State School Organisations today would like to acknowledge and thank the teachers across Australia in our nation's Public Schools. World Teachers' Day Australia is a perfect opportunity to celebrate the work of our teachers.

"As parents, every school day we entrust our children to teachers as they journey through their formal education." said Phillip Spratt, President of the Australian Council of State School Organisations

"Teachers are significant partners, with parents, in the education of our young people as we work together to enrich their knowledge and experiences"

Teachers in our Public Schools work often with limited physical and financial resources in their day today teaching; yet their dedication and commitment to our young people remains constant and second to none.

"They play a pivotal role in helping our young people to be the best they can be. As dedicated professionals their influence has a life-long effect on those that they teach,"

"Through their daily work, teachers make a significant contribution to developing students' capacity and desire to learn."

It is most fitting that a day is set aside to recognise their significant contribution to our children, to our families and our society.

The Australian Council of State School Organisations would like to thank teachers for their true professionalism and the outstanding work that they do for our children within the public education system in working with families to build Australia's future.
